Abstract: Academic mobility is one of the important aspects of the modern education system, which gives students and teachers the opportunity to study or teach in the conditions they want. Not only internal mobility, but also international mobility is increasing today. Many of our students express their desire to study at foreign universities. Such steps will strengthen both the education system and inter-state relations of the commonwealth.

Key words: academic mobility, migration, senior staff, cooperation

Introduction; Getting an education, being a student of a higher education institution is one of the goals of each age. In this regard, a wide range of opportunities are created in our country. It is gratifying for applicants to submit documents to 5 HEI at the same time and be admitted to one of these educational institutions based on the accumulated score .

Methods; A number of programs are being developed by our state in order to provide comfort and conditions for young people who have already been born in the country after their education. At this point, one should dwell on the concept of academic mobility. Because this system also allows for those educated to study in the institution they want, it also greatly helps them to enter into social relationships by expanding their worldview and range of thinking. Academic mobility means that a student or teacher can study or teach for a certain period of time by Agreement at HEIs in their country or abroad.

Results; Academic mobility refers to the movement of students, researchers and teachers between different educational institutions and geographic locations with the aim of increasing academic and professional experience. The concept of academic mobility is often seen as an important factor in the development of pedagogical innovation, as it provides an opportunity for inter-institutional cooperation and exchange of knowledge and advanced experience. To ensure the effective integration of academic mobility into the cluster system of pedagogical innovations, it is important to set specific goals and structures for cooperation, sufficient resources and support those involved in mobility initiatives. In addition, it is important to educate a culture of openness and respect for diversity, as it helps to exchange ideas and develop new pedagogical approaches. .[1]

Discussion; In fact, completely moving your studies to another place after starting in one place is not a joyful situation. The reason is whether the goal is clearly entered into training why switch to another HEI. As the minister of higher and secondary special education Abdukadir Toshkulov said in his speech: "The student must clearly define his goal from the first year. It was projected that a total of 150,000 students would apply to move their studies this year.

Academic mobility can be applied instead. For example, rectors agree, students in Surkhandarya and Tashkent exchange and study for 1-2 semesters. But the diploma must be taken from one place.

What is the saying that 150 thousand applicants submit documents for moving their studies? This means a one-year quota"[2]

Speaking of the beneficial aspects of academic mobility, the 1st place serves to train mature qualified personnel. For a certain period of time, a new environment, education in a new atmosphere, to some extent the qualities of intelligence, tolerance and accessibility are required of a person in order to become a real member of that society. If you went abroad for education, Excellent knowledge of a foreign language is also a must. Without difficulty, without painstaking success, of course. There is a saying that science is transmitted to a person who likes a little of his life to get knowledge. Likewise, in addition to acquiring a thorough knowledge of his expertise during his studies in a new environment, the opportunity arises in our youth to study the customs, traditions, character-nature of his people, in some way his worldview and mentality of the brogan regions.

Conclusions; In place of the conclusion, it can be said that one of the areas that develop the country is the education system in which the representatives of the field are rich in experience and skills, the system develops so smoothly that the need for them increases even more. To do this, we must effectively use international and regional academic mobility. On the basis of mutual internal and external cooperation, it is imperative to further increase the level of Education recipients.

As noted by the director of the Center for Higher Education Development Research and advanced technology implementation under the Ministry of higher and secondary special education, doctor of legal sciences, professor Shuhrat Yakubov in his article "internal academic mobility":

Modern life cannot be imagined without the advancement of Science and education. Boisi, research and research on this, alaloqibat, serves the well-being of human life. Today's reforms to reform the higher education system of our country and improve quality indicators are aimed at achieving the development of society by training qualified personnel.

The intensity and effect of the changes also came to the attention of the international public. In the context of market Relations, higher education services must necessarily comply with the requirements of the labor market, meet world standards. If not, then ensuring the employment of trained personnel will bring up another new issue that needs to be solved[3]
