The article also highlights the challenges and solutions related to the development of the Uzbek language in an international context. In conclusion, the important role of the Uzbek language as an instrument of mutual understanding, cultural exchange and successful international cooperation is emphasized.

Key words: international cooperation, identity, international recognition, cultural roots, an instrument of intercultural dialogue, economic positions, the development of digital technologies.

Uzbekistan and Turkey, linked by deep historical and cultural roots, have been actively developing their bilateral relations in recent years. This cooperation covers the spheres of economy, trade, tourism, education and culture. In this context, the Uzbek language plays an increasingly important role as an instrument of intercultural dialogue, contributing to mutual understanding and strengthening ties between the two countries. In this article, we will consider the importance of the Uzbek language in the perspective of the development and international cooperation of the New Uzbekistan and Turkey. The Uzbek language is an integral part of the national identity of Uzbekistan, which plays an important role in preserving its rich culture and traditions. The development of the Uzbek language in the field of education and science is the basis for the training of qualified specialists who can contribute to the progress of the country. As well as the increase in the number of native Uzbek speakers in the international arena contributes to the expansion of trade and investment ties, strengthening Uzbekistan's economic position.

The common past and cultural traditions create a solid foundation for cooperation between Uzbekistan and Turkey. Knowledge of the Uzbek language allows us to deepen these ties, contributing to mutual understanding and strengthening friendship between peoples.

It should be noted that with the growth of tourist flows from Turkey to Uzbekistan, the demand for guides and translators who speak Uzbek is growing, which stimulates the development of tourism and strengthens tourist ties. For example, according to the National Statistical Committee of Uzbekistan, the number of tourists from Turkey visiting Uzbekistan doubled from 2017 to 2021. In 2021, more than 30,000 Turkish tourists visited Uzbekistan.

The Uzbek language can become an instrument of academic cooperation between universities and research centers of the two countries, facilitating the exchange of experience, knowledge and research. Referring to data from the Ministry of Education of Uzbekistan, in 2022, about 10,000 foreign students studied Uzbek at universities in Uzbekistan. Some Turkish universities include Uzbek in the list of foreign languages studied.

The development of digital technologies, including online learning platforms, contributes to the dissemination and study of the Uzbek language abroad, making it accessible to a wide audience. Creation of new educational materials: The creation of high-quality textbooks, dictionaries and other materials for learning the Uzbek language attracts the attention of foreign students and researchers, contributing to improving the quality and accessibility of education. Active participation in international events and forums dedicated to the study and promotion of the Uzbek language increases its influence and recognition in the world.

To increase the importance of the Uzbek language, attention should be paid to the following aspects:

1. It is necessary to actively create new educational materials for learning the Uzbek language, including online courses and mobile applications.
2. Education and training of specialists in teaching the Uzbek language abroad should be encouraged.
3. It is important to promote the Uzbek language more actively as an important instrument of international cooperation and cultural exchange.

The Uzbek language plays a key role in the development and strengthening of relations between Uzbekistan and Turkey. It is an instrument of mutual understanding, a means of transmitting a rich culture and traditions, as well as an important factor in successful international cooperation. For the further development of the Uzbek language, it is necessary to continue working on the creation of new educational materials, encourage education and training of specialists, as well as actively promote the language as an important tool for international cooperation.

The development of the Uzbek language in an international context has great prospects due to the introduction of new technologies, the creation of new educational materials and active participation in international events.

In general, the Uzbek language has great potential for further development and strengthening of international relations. Carrying out a targeted policy to promote it and create favorable conditions for its study will contribute to the successful development of relations between Uzbekistan and Turkey, as well as strengthen the position of the Uzbek language in the global language space.
