Holiday mornings are an important means of artistic education. Children's taste is formed here. Artistic musical-literary material, colorful decoration of the room, costumes help to develop a sense of beauty in children. A holiday is a celebration that unites people with common experiences and emotional mood. In the encyclopedic dictionary, the word "holiday" is defined as a day dedicated to important events, traditional dates, and in the explanatory dictionary - a solemn day in memory of an important event, "a joyful day organized by someone", "a public a day of games, entertainment", is explained as "a happy, joyful day marked by some important, pleasant event". About the role of holidays and leisure hours in the life of children, pedagogues and psychologists (Ya. A. Kamensky, K. D. Ushinsky, N. I. Pirogov, L. S. Vygotsky, Sh. A. Amonoshvili, V. I. Zagvyazinsky, L. Ulmer, etc.), and It was considered in the research works of the figures (B.M. Nemensky, N.I. Sats, A. Efros, etc.). Special attention is always paid to the role of theater art in the educational and educational process of festive celebrations (works of N.N. Bakhtin, L.V. Artemova, E.E. Kravtsova and others).

Holidays and entertainment events help the development of imagination, memory, thinking. Early childhood impressions are often remembered for a lifetime. Their brightness and richness can warm and decorate the human heart for many years. Holidays add their own special feelings and emotions to the overall goal of unforgettable childhood experiences. Holidays are the joy of communication, the joy of creativity and cooperation, the joy of freedom and mutual enrichment. The main task of pedagogues is to synthesize both aesthetic and moral education, the ability to see and understand beauty, as well as all the skills and competences that children have acquired during the entire period of study, using the interest of children, their giving, in this type of activity.

Festive mornings are an excellent occasion to activate speech and its communicative function. The holiday is a speech environment that is very necessary for children. The holiday opens up rich opportunities for the all-round development of a preschool child.

In the education of children of preschool age, holiday mornings and leisure hours are of particular importance and form a part of the regular educational process. Holiday breakfasts and entertaining hours at MTT have a significant impact on children's education, form a high level of artistic, aesthetic pleasure and taste in them, and play a leading role in the perception of beauty. Holiday tales have a special place in the aesthetic education system of pre-school educational organizations. They combine various types of musical art and artistic activity. At the heart of every holiday is a main idea that children need to understand, and therefore the content of the holiday should be presented to them in a simple, understandable form. It helps to combine different types of art during the holidays, which form moral and aesthetic feelings in the child. Holidays should bring joy to children and give each participant an opportunity to demonstrate their artistic abilities, emotional sensitivity and creative activity. The special excitement of the holiday raises the children's emotions, therefore, during the holiday morning, children are educated aesthetically and morally at the same time. The art of music takes the leading place in the celebration. Under the sounds of a solemn march, children enter the hall and perform various formation exercises reminiscent of a festive march, sing, play and dance. Musical dramatization games unite children and create a special mood. Early musical and literary works must be highly artistic, where great care must be taken in selecting the repertoire for the quality of the works. In the morning of the holiday, high demands are placed on the speaker's speech. Words aimed at children, expressive intonation - all this serves as a means of aesthetic impact on children. The script is often entertaining, well-thought-out, musical performances and wonderful unexpected performances. During the holiday, children's activities are diverse, they perform dances, poems, songs in a ceremonial procession. In singing, expressiveness is achieved by clearly playing the melody with a clear, harmonious sound; when reading poetry - different intonations, good diction; in dance - movements should match the nature of the music, the form of the musical piece. The expressiveness of children's performance largely depends on the richness of the musical and artistic repertoire, its compatibility with the young capabilities of preschool children. Aesthetic education includes the development of artistic and creative abilities.

The celebration can include dances and games performed independently by children, as well as musical improvisations. At the same time, an individual approach to children is necessary, taking into account the level of their artistic abilities. It is desirable to prepare a performance with each child, depending on his abilities, which will give him pleasure. In this, the child can participate in public games, dance, sing, and there can be individual performances as part of a group of other children: take turns reading poetry, a simple role in a theater performance, a simple drum on the metallophone. to play the game, etc. Good preparation, well-thought-out script, accuracy in organization - all this determines the behavior and mood of each child at the holiday, the effectiveness of the effect of various art forms. Children should behave cheerfully and freely on the holiday. However, you should not allow endless entertainment that overexcites children.

It is not necessary to overload holiday scripts with a large number of repertoires. To make the holiday an effective form of organizing children's artistic activities, systematically work with them every day; development of their abilities, taste, creative activity in musical, artistic speech, visual activity; it is important to develop certain skills. Educational pedagogues should not forget that the holiday is, first of all, a joy for children early on.

Music leaders in the organization of holiday mornings and entertainment hours at MTT - listening to music; vocal performance; introduction to national musical instruments; introduction to the composer's life and work; introducing music types; introduction to the basics of rhythmic movement and dance; identification and development of positive abilities in children; while carrying out tasks such as the gradual formation of children's education through musical means, they widely use various forms of activity in their work experience:

- music lessons (depending on the task and purpose, there are different topics and directions);
- holiday mornings;
- entertaining musical games;
- hours of sophistication;
- artistic and literary musical compositions;
- musical theater dramatizations;
- individual work types;
- circle work.

While preparing for the festivities, first of all, it is necessary to consider that this is a holiday for everyone, that it will leave an unforgettable mark in the memory of children, and bring them pleasure and happiness. It is necessary that the holiday mornings organized in the preschool education organization should be a part of the national holidays.

Children learn to subordinate their actions to the rhythm of music, to distinguish musical tempos, to reflect them in actions, games and speech. Holidays and entertainment events are bright and joyful events in the life of preschool children.

Thus, holiday mornings are a synthesis of all art forms. The wide use of their tools in working with children of preschool age allows to expand the worldview, form the views and norms of behavior of the child, and develop his creative abilities. Abilities are manifested in various types of activity, certain skills and competencies are formed.
